Kylee Cahoy Named AMT's Outstanding MLT Student

July 5, 2017: Kylee Cahoy, of Randlett, Utah, has been named The American Medical Technologists' Outstanding MLT Student. Kylee is a native of Wyoming and attended SWOSU on a rodeo scholarship. Kylee transferred her coursework from the Weatherford campus to the Sayre campus in the fall of 2016 and was able to complete the MLT course work in only two semesters. She is currently completing the clinical portion of the program at Uintah Basin Healthcare in Roosevelt, Utah. During the fall semester, Kylee was simultaneously working to complete her BS degree while taking the MLT professional courses and attending rodeos which were often quite distant from western Oklahoma. Kylee was a member of the Biology Club, National Honor Society, President's Honor Roll, Who's Who, AMT Student Member and Student Athlete of the Month. Kylee participated in the OkSSAMT fall meeting by presenting a case study. She has also been involved in a highway beautification project, reading to children, and helped with a rodeo for children with special needs.

Kylee will receive complimentary registration to the AMT National Convention in Kansas City, Missouri plus a plaque and a monetary award. Congratulations, Kylee!
